Handover and open questions

Fictional sample - page 2 of 2. This page is part of the same test document.

3. Planned handover

The tenant plans to return the keys on 30 November 2026. A joint inspection is proposed for that day. Neither party has yet completed a condition checklist or signed a handover record.

4. Matters not specified

This fictional agreement does not state a fixed deadline for returning the deposit. It does not include a deduction statement, payment receipts, photographs, a registration record or a notice of termination.

Suggested test question

What should I check and collect before asking for my deposit back? Please distinguish the wording in this document from anything that needs more facts or verified legal sources.

What this sample tests

Page references, amount and date extraction, missing-information questions, and the difference between contract wording and verified law. A useful answer should recognise the missing refund deadline and avoid inventing one.

No real person or property is described. No signature, stamp or registration is represented.
